—Up-to-date plays must not be all serious, if they are to find popular favor. That is why the author of "The Tide of Life" the realistic drama to be presented at The Kentucky Friday night has such a lot of comedy in it. Manager Edward Weitzel has had long experience in providing entertainment for the American public, and he knows his patrons well enough not to offer them all solid fare. He knows that they demand some bubbling, effervescent, keen humor, with a spice of novelty in it, and enlivened with singing and dancing, in addition to the powerful dramatic plot. So those who love fun, as well as a plot, palpitating with heart interest, will find both in "The Tide of Life." Seats on sale Thursday.

—Nothing elicited more surprise and enthusiastic praise in the playing of Sousa's band in England than the marvellously delicate accompaniment that this famous organization gave of the vocal and violin solos that diversified Mr. Sousa's concert programs. Nothing of the kind had ever been heard before and the English critics were astonished at the remarkable simulation of string effects, particularly from the enormous brass basses played by the American musicians. All the English bands use string basses for concert work, owing, it is said, to the fact that their instrumentalists do not possess the necessary skill to obtain similar artistic results from brass. Sousa's accompaniments were equally praised on the continent, and here at home they are well known and admired. He comes to The Kentucky tomorrow night. Seats now on sale.

INSPECTED PROPERTY

But the Railroad Commissioners
Rendered no Decision.

Met With City Officials and Railroad
Men at City Hall Saturday.

The railroad commissioners reached Paducah Saturday afternoon and made a personal inspection of the local railroad property in company with Agent John Donovan, of the Illinois Central, Mayor Yeiser and several others.

Saturday night the commissioners met with Mayor Yeiser, Engineer L. A. Washington and Auditor Alex Kirkland, representing the city, and Agent John Donovan, of the Illinois Central, and a committee from the Commercial club composed of the following members: President L. S. DuBois and Messrs. George C. Thompson, F. P. Toof and F. L. Scott.

The meeting was held to discuss the railroad's reduction in taxable property, and the complete records were presented for examination. All the information and figures were secured by the commissioners, who will take some action when Frankfort is reached.

They said they would have to reserve their decision in the matter until they could pass on the interpretation of the law exempting certain railroad property. The thing the city is protesting against is in the reduction of the union depot and shop property. The railroad company five years ago assessed its union depot property at $70,000, and within the last two years succeeded in taking off $50,000, making the present assessment $20,000. The shop property five years ago was assessed at $250,000, and two years ago was cut down $51,000, making the present assessment $199,000. This is what the city wants righted.

COUNCIL MEETS

THE SALOON CLOSING ORDINANCE WILL COME UP
TONIGHT.

The councilmanic board meets this evening, and among the things to come up is the saloon closing ordinance. It fixes the time at 10:30 o'clock, but its passage is uncertain as it is claimed that if it became a law it would be unconstitutional and could not be enforced. In fact, Judge Sanders has intimated as much, and so has the prosecuting attorney. It may be that the opinion of the city solicitor will be asked off the matter. It is claimed that the principal reason it would be unconstitutional is that under the license issued saloonkeepers by the city they can keep open as long as they desire on week days.

It is not known whether or not there will be anything else of importance to come up at that body tonight.

BIG SALE FOR SOUSA.

Evidently the people of Paducah like John Philip Sousa. The sale of seats for the concert tomorrow night began this morning and before noon had amounted to about $300, with an expected rush tomorrow morning.

STRUCK AN EMPLOYE

JAMES COFFEE ARRESTED FOR STRIKING MRS. FRAM.

James Coffee, a bookkeeper at the M. Rosenblatt cigar factory, was arrested this afternoon by Officers Harlan and Clark for striking Mrs. Hattie Fram, an employe of the factory.

Mrs. Fram claims she was attending to her duties when Coffee walked in drunk and swearing. She left the room to get out of earshot of his oaths and Coffee followed her. She told him to leave her alone and this angered him to such an extent that he struck at her. She attempted to defend herself, which only made his anger worse and he struck her again, almost knocking her down. She appeared at the city hall and told the story to Captain Bailey, who had a warrant issued, and the case will be tried before Judge Sanders tomorrow.
